

The ITTN, in collaboration with Pearl Cohen, are pleased to invite you to a series of webinar sessions on recent technology and legal matters

LECTURE #3

OPEN SOURCE GOVERNANCE

The use of Free/Libre and Open Source Software (FOSS) abounds in virtually every organization engaged in software development nowadays, from very early stage startups to technology-oriented fortune-500 companies.

Using FOSS enhances the ability to leverage technological, marketing and business opportunities. But it also entails business, IP and other legal risks that warrant meticulous management and mitigation through Open Source Governance.

Our upcoming webinar will explore Open Source Governance, discussing the value of an organizational policy for compliant use of FOSS and how supplemental use of automated FOSS management and governance tools can help streamline Open Source Governance.
